A worker unloads sewer pipe that will be used for the new Wilson Park swimming pool's drainage system.

Pool construction 'on schedule'

Construction of the new Wilson Park public swimming pool is progressing as planned. Park Board President Nancy Sanders-Miles said this week that construction crews have begun work on the facility's parking lot, started excavating for placement of storm sewer lines and begun relocating utilities.

"Excavation for the pool itself was scheduled to begin Oct. 1, but they have been bringing in dirt to build the area up about three feet before they begin digging. They have built it up to about a foot and a half today," Miles said Monday.

She said that the minor delay will allow the high groundwater table to recede, making excavation easier.

Miles said that the parking lot — to be shared with the nearby ice rink — will be blacktopped this week and will be completed in time for the upcoming public ice-skating session, which begins at the end of this month.

"As far as I know, everything is progressing on schedule," she said.

Volunteers last November approved by a 34-vote margin a bond issue of $1.87 million to finance the new pool project.

Weather permitting, park officials hope to have pool construction completed next spring and anticipate an opening day sometime in early June.

Construction should take about nine months.

Democrats splitting Haine backs Davis for state senate

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

It is official — a rift has formed among the formerly tight-knit Democratic Elected Madison County Officials.

Madison County States Attorney Bill Haine, a member of DEMCO, announced this week that he will support state senate candidate Steve Davis of Wood River and sit on Davis' campaign committee.

Haine's announcement comes just a week after fellow DEMCO member and long-time County Clerk Evelyn Bowles said that she is interested in the state senate seat currently held by Sam

Vadalabene. Vadalabene, who has been in poor health and unable to attend legislative sessions in Springfield for more than a year, said last week that he will step down and not seek re-election.

The Democratic primary is to be held in March. Davis, the son of former United Steelworkers of America District 34 Director Buddy Davis, has served as Wood River Township Highway Commissioner for the past 12 years.

"Steve Davis is smart, he's young and he'll be an aggressive advocate for our area," Haine said Monday.

"Senator Sam is almost above comparison. But Steve will give 100 percent effort. He is a very nice guy and he can sit with anyone face-to-face, from the heads of corporations to the man on the street. He'll work hard for us," Haine said.

Davis said he is glad to have Haine working for him. "Bill Haine is one of the most respected public leaders in Madison County. Bill's enthusiasm and his counsel will be a great asset to me and my campaign."

"The voters trust Bill Haine and they trust his judgment," Davis said.

Bowles announced two weeks ago that she would retire after (See DEMOCRATS, Page 12A)

Urban League president resigns

A distinguished military career helped Robert C. Greene to attain the presidency of the Madison County Urban League, but that career apparently exists only on paper.

Greene, who resigned his interim presidency Sept. 1, joined the Urban League in October 1992 after working with the Family Service and Visiting Nurse Association for six months.

He joined the PSVNA after reportedly retiring as a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army.

According to a copy of his resume, Greene opened through a military program called Operation Bootstrap, a master's degree and doctorate in microbiology from foreign universities during his 25-year military career.

The resume showed that Greene served as an officer in Vietnam in 1968.

But Army officials — after searching databases and microfiche files for his name, rank, date of birth and Social Security number — were unable to locate any evidence that a Robert C. Greene served in the Army.

"I'm not showing anything on him at all," said Shari Lawrence, Army public affairs specialist. "If we don't have him, he doesn't exist."

When contacted by the Alton Telegraph, Greene said he had documentation for his military record, but he did not return subsequent calls.

Urban League Board Chairman Ed Hightower said he could not discuss details of Greene's resignation.

"Robert Greene was hired as interim CEO (chief executive officer) Oct. 20, 1992, pending certification," Hightower said.

"He resigned Sept. 1, 1993. We did not get through the certification process. He resigned at that point."

Hightower said the certification process is a standard procedure where national and local Urban League officials "complete a background check on education and relevant experience for chapter heads and full-time employees."

Hightower said the process for (See LEAGUE, Page 12A)

Tentative pact at Laclede Steel Workers to vote on agreement on Friday

Some steelworkers nearing retirement eligibility at Laclede Steel in Alton say they will have no choice except to approve a new, four-year agreement reached by company and union negotiators last week.

"A lot of guys are trying to just get 30 (years) and get out," said 43-year-old Ernest Franklin of Granite City, who has worked at the Alton plant for 26 years.

"The average age is around 50 and most people are going to be near 30 years seniority at the end of the contract, so there's not much choice other than voting to approve it."

Sources said about half of the union employees have worked at the plant for at least 30 years — the tenure required to be eligible for retirement — and number 25 percent of the workers will be close to retirement eligibility when the proposed contract expires in September 1997.

Under the terms of the proposed contract, the company will guarantee 800 of the 1,115 union jobs, but freeze wages until October 1995.

The proposal calls for a $500 signing bonus upon approval and another $500 bonus Oct. 1, 1996. It grants a 50-cent-an-hour raise in 1995.

The proposal also calls for Laclede to invest the equivalent of half of the company's after-tax income for the contract period in capital improvements at the Alton plant.

"The worst part of this whole thing is they're still going to continue to decrease the job force in this contract and probably the next one," Franklin said.

United Steelworkers of America Local 3643, which represents the workers, is distributing written copies of the tentative agreement to its members this week.

"We didn't get everything we wanted, but we got job security and a good investment commit-

Newsboy grant deadline Oct. 13

Agencies that serve children and wish to be considered for a 1993 Old Newsboys Day grant have a week left to submit an application.

The application deadline is Oct. 13. Applications must be postmarked or delivered by that date to Suburban Journals, Old Newsboys Day Application, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, 63131.

Since 1967, volunteer Old Newsboys have worked street corners on the Thursday before Thanksgiving selling special-edition newspapers. Every penny raised on Old Newsboys Day is distributed to local children's charities. Last year, almost $215,000 was raised and distributed to more than 200 agencies.

Since the drive began, more than $5 million has been raised for area children. Those wishing to be volunteer Old Newsboys for a day should send their name, address, daytime telephone number and corner preference to the Suburban Journals, Old Newsboys Day, at the address above.

County sees grim budget forecast

Madison County may have to go on a diet of less green to stay in the black.

Members of the County Board's Finance Committee heard a grim diagnosis Thursday when financial experts outlined consequences facing the county if spending isn't curtailed next year.

For the first time in more than a decade, the county could be facing a $1.66 million budget shortfall, due in part to declining income tax surcharge revenues and a $1.1 million renovation to the juvenile detention home.

"It's not a bad picture, but it's not a good picture," said committee member Rudy Papa of Bethalto as the five-member committee began formal deliberations on the budget for fiscal 1994, which begins Dec. 1.

Strong medicine in the form of freezing spending at 1993 levels may be the only way to avoid out the county's $10 million reserve fund and leave no cushion for emergencies, officials said.

Board members, who will spend the next month assembling a $22 million budget for the fiscal year, may also have to consider forcing department heads to pay for employees' raises out of departmental budgets, something that hasn't been done in the county since the mid-1980s.

On average, daily operating costs for the entire county have grown between 3.5 percent and 6 percent a year, according to county figures.

That sort of growth, however, may have to be reduced or even halted to keep the county in the black, some officials indicated.

Depending on what county officials decide to do, department (See BUDGET, Page 12A)

2nd man convicted in big cocaine bust

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

The second man charged with hauling more than $6 million in cocaine through St. Clair County last year was convicted of drug trafficking Wednesday.

A jury deliberated about 2½ hours before convicting 35-year-old Jose Nunez of Hialeah, Fla., on the charge. He could get 30-120 years in prison when he is sentenced Oct. 29.

Nunez dropped his head as the verdict was read. He later shook his head as the sentencing date was announced.

His co-defendant, 23-year-old Felix Rios of Florida, was sentenced in July to 34 years in prison for his part in transporting the 140 pounds of cocaine by tractor-trailer on Interstates 55/70 in May 1992.

The two men were stopped

May 15 by Fairmont City police because the truck had improper lights. Rios stepped out of the truck's cab and then agreed to let the rig be searched. Police found Nunez in the sleeper compartment and two large fruit boxes each containing 70 kilograms of cocaine.

During sentencing, Circuit Judge Michael O'Malley called Rios "a mule" who carried the drugs, but only got a small reward for taking the bigger risk. Rios was paid $700 to make the trip. However, the judge said he had to follow state law in the sentencing.

Under state law, drug fines and sentences are determined by the amount of drugs involved in the crime.

Attorneys for both Nunez and Rios argued the law was unconstitutional because it amounts to cruel and unusual punishment. O'Malley denied the motions.

Suspect dies of wounds

A 38-year-old Granite City-area man died over the weekend as a result of gunshot wounds he sustained Thursday afternoon when he allegedly shot himself while authorities tried to serve him with a rape warrant.

Stephen M. Rummier, of the 3200 block of Miracle Avenue, died Saturday at St. Louis University Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

Rummier shot himself in the head after struggling with deputies from the Madison County Sheriff's Department at his home at about 3:45 p.m. Thursday, said Chief Deputy Bud Galloway.

Galloway said two deputies tried to serve Rummier with a felony warrant from Doniphan, Mo., charging him with forcible rape.

But Rummier grabbed a nearby handgun, struggled with deputies and then went into a bathroom and shot himself in the head, Galloway said.

Sheriff Bob Churchlich said that Rummier had apparently been receiving threats from the parents of the child he had allegedly raped.

Roxana fire chief sues over injury

The Roxana fire chief is seeking more than $15,000 in damages for leg injuries allegedly suffered while helping at the scene of a truck-train crash in Hartford.

In a lawsuit filed Wednesday, Chief Mauri Hastings claims he burned his left leg June 28 after he fell into a hole filled with hot diesel fuel and water after the Amtrak train collided with a loaded tanker truck on tracks at Hawthorne Avenue.

Hastings, who declined to comment on the lawsuit, has been on medical leave since the accident. He said he may return to work in a few weeks.

The lawsuit is seeking damages from Amtrak and truck driver Terry Wilson, who was employed by Hartog Oil Co. Neither could be reached for comment.

The train, carrying 48 passengers, slammed into Wilson's fuel tanker after it stalled on the tracks.

Hastings was apparently injured while he was assisting passengers off the train.

The lawsuit claims Amtrak is negligent because it failed to control the train, allowed it to travel at unreasonable speed and failed to stop the train in time to avoid the collision.

The lawsuit claim's Wilson is negligent because he failed to yield, did not properly maintain his vehicle and did not remove his truck from the railroad crossing.

Buses using cleaner fuel

Bi-State's 725-vehicle fleet is burning cleaner fuel, in compliance with an Environmental Protection Agency rule prohibiting the use of high-sulfur diesel fuel.

The agency's buses, vans and maintenance vehicles are converting to a low-sulfur diesel which burns cleaner, with lower-level pollution emissions.

The agency has cleaned all residual fuel out of its storage tanks in preparation for the new fuel.

Since Sept. 13, all fuel deliveries made to the agency have been low-sulfur diesel.

The agency consumes about 6 million gallons of diesel a year in providing public transportation and maintaining its transit properties.

"There's no question that alternative and cleaner-burning fuels are playing a significant role in the evolution of public transit operations," said John K. Leary Jr., executive director of Bi-State.

"This new fuel has excellent low-pollution emissions, and is ideal in addressing environmental and public health concerns."

Restoration

St. Elizabeth

Every gem needs an occasional polishing, and "Jewel of Granite City" is no exception.

Through hot, humid days, summer, the rainy fall, and snowy days of winter, the St. Elizabeth statue has graced the front entrance of St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The brick stand near the helipad has been her home for years, but the weather was taking its toll and could permanently damage her.

Dan Statte from Catholic Supply, St. Louis, contacted the board of SEMC, and he was expecting a visit from a summer who could restore her statue for him.

The visitor was Reto, an apprentice statue maker of the artist who made the statue.

The Demetz family, who lives in the small village of Orisei near Bolzano, Italy, Demetz Art Studio, the largest church statuary company.

Ivo, an accomplished carver and fiberglass statue artist, made the Elizabeth statue, which was purchased by the SEMC Auxiliary in 1983. He is longtime friend of Statte.

"I met Ivo in 1967 when I was looking for distributary work," Statte said.

"Our families have been close since then. In fact, and my son, Dean, are age and are good friends."

Reto is learning all from the business and, in time, learn to tell the artist's work.

Reto said, "The hard part of restoring St. Elizabeth is the baskets of roses. The more detail in the statue."

"It is also more difficult work on this statue because there is no time to erect scaffolding around it, so work from ladders."

The plan is to refinish Elizabeth to a glow, but a little more accent in bronze than was present.

Ten years earlier, in Orisei shop, Ivo made the Elizabeth statue of clay and plaster.

Restoring the 'jewel'

St. Elizabeth statue at hospital gets a good polishing

Every gem needs an occasional polishing, and the "jewel of Granite City" is no exception.

Through hot, humid days of summer, the rainy fall and cold, snowy days of winter, the St. Elizabeth statue has graced the front entrance of St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The brick stand near the helipad has been her home for 10 years, but the weather has been taking its toll and could have permanently damaged her.

Dan Stutte from Catholic Supply, St. Louis, contacted Sister Mary Thomas, chairman of the board at SEMC, and said he was expecting a visitor this summer who could refinish the statue for him.

The visitor was Reto Demetz, apprentice statue maker and son of the artist who made the statue.

The Demetz family, which lives in the small village of Ortisei near Bolzano, Italy, owns Demetz Art Studio, the world's largest church statuary company.

Ivo, an accomplished wood carver and fiberglass and bronze statue artist, made the St. Elizabeth statue, which was purchased by the SEMC Auxiliary in 1983. He is a longtime friend of Stutte.

I met Ivo in 1987 when he was looking for distributors for his work," Stutte said.

"Our families have been very close since then. In fact, Reto and my son, Dean, are the same age and are good friends."

Reto is learning all facets of the business and, in time, will learn to tell the artist who made the piece just by looking at it.

Reto said, "The hardest part of restoring St. Elizabeth will be the baskets of roses. There is more detail in the statue there."

"It is also more difficult to work on this statue because there is no time to erect scaffolding around it, so we will work from ladders."

The plan is to refinish St. Elizabeth to a glow, bringing out a little more accent in the bronze than was present before.

Ten years earlier, in his Ortisei shop, Ivo made the St. Elizabeth statue of clay called "plastilina."

Dan Stutte, president of Catholic Supply Co., and his son, Dean, clean the brick stand for the St. Elizabeth statue.

It was shipped to Verona, Italy, where it was bronzed and then transported to Granite City. Over time, it has blackened with oxidation. If this is not removed, the statue would deteriorate.

"To restore this statue, we will remove the old wax," Reto said. "This is done by sanding the surface, which also brings out the original bronze color."

The patina, a type of wax coloring which the artist can make darker or lighter, is rubbed onto the surface. A special lacquer is sprayed over the statue to protect it from the elements.

These supplies are unique in origin and had to be shipped from Demetz' shop.

In the early morning humidity, Reto, Stutte and Dean begin sanding the statue.

As Reto sands one area, Dean washes the surface. They pay special attention to each detail of St. Elizabeth's gown, veil, crown and basket of roses.

Then they add the patino wax. The team works from morning to evening, a period that was expected to enable it to complete the entire job.

The team finds this to be an unrealistic goal, thanks to the heat and humidity, which slow their work significantly.

The next day, rain beats down as they are spraying lacquer, halting their work.

Back with more patino the next morning, they repair what was washed away. They spray the lacquer, but the wind picks up and they lose a big part of it.

With their supply of lacquer diminishing, they must search the bi-state area for more. This takes several hours of valuable time, but finally they find what is needed to mix an equivalent.

"The weather is very hot today," Reto says while finishing the statue's toe. "Yesterday had a nice overcast and breeze. It was good for us, but bad for her."

"Today, if the rain holds off, we will be done. It is a very hot, humid day, so the lacquer will take very nicely."

Two hours later, the team completes the task. St. Elizabeth glistens in the afternoon sunlight and the three smile at their accomplishment.

"St. Elizabeth is a statue that is very appreciative," Stutte says. "Through the years, its design has not fallen out of favor."

"It is truly the jewel of Granite City. There is no other that marks this area so well."

Reto Demetz stretches to reach the top of St. Elizabeth's crown, removing the old wax from its surface with his electric sander.

Experimentation—Three Granite City teachers—Donna Carl, left, Patricia Gornwa and Sarah Huber—participate in an experiment during a conference at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. A $1 million National Science Foundation grant has helped finance a scientific education program for area grade school teachers. The program is a joint effort of SIUE and Educational Service Center Region 16.

Training offered in master recycler program

The Madison-St. Clair Unit of the Cooperative Extension Service is looking for some area people to become master recyclers.

These master recyclers will receive instruction and first-hand experience starting in October. During the following year, they will participate in rewarding educational projects, individually or in small groups.

They also will develop valuable knowledge and skills as they deal with the public and the solid waste and environmental issues of today.

During the fall the volunteers will learn about more than just solid waste management; they will develop strong communication skills and learn effective methods for educating and motivating the public. They will learn first-hand about landfills and the local communities' recycling programs. They also will meet many people who share interests in the environment.

Any area resident may apply for this new program. Participants will meet one day a week for six weeks for training and will alternate meetings between Edwardsville and Belleville.

To apply for the program contact Janet Burnett at the Cooperative Extension Service at 692-7700 or 236-8600.

SIU projects $16.5 million savings

Long-term savings of more than $16.5 million are projected in a Southern Illinois University productivity report, approved recently by the SIUE Board of Trustees for submission to the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE).

The report was prepared in response to the statewide Priorities, Quality and Productivity initiative begun by the IBHE in Oct. 1991.

The report builds on actions taken by the University and reported in 1992, including: elimination of two baccalaureate programs, one master's program, two specialist degree programs, and number of specializations and concentrations; consolidation and restructuring of instructional units; reduction of research and public service functions and services; and structural and reorganizational changes involving staffing reductions, consolidation and reallocation of positions.

SIUE Chancellor James Brown said the objective is to focus efforts on the University's highest priorities, strengthening the quality of the educational experience, and reinvesting staff and resources in areas which most directly support the mission of SIUE and its constituent universities, in accordance with the IBHE "Guidelines for Productivity Improvements in Illinois Higher Education."

The report details savings for the Carbondale (SIUC) and Edwardsville (SIUE) campuses and the School of Medicine (SOM), as well as the Office of the Chancellor. Total long-term savings were projected as follows: SIUE—$22.2 million; SIUC—$5.9 million; SOM—$8.4 million; total $16.5 million. The Office of the Chancellor has recorded savings of $478,185.

Groups want classes open to disabled

Some say special ed students learn more in regular classes

Classroom doors should be open to children who now spend their time in special education rooms, say several groups of parents and educators.

With a teamwork approach of special education teachers and general education teachers, children with disabilities can learn side by side with other children, they say.

At a recent seminar in Alton, trends were discussed by members of the Illinois Planning Council on Developmental Disabilities, People for Inclusion, IMPACT Inc. and parents and educators.

Children can be included in a general classroom with the help of curriculum adaptations and supportive services, said Cathy Contarino, director of community services at IMPACT, an Alton-based advocacy group for those with disabilities. In part, she said, the changes "are attitudinal, getting general teachers and special education teachers to work together." Contarino said special education students will learn more and develop better social skills if included in regular classrooms. Other children need to associate with people with disabilities, also, she said. "Integration is a right, not a privilege," she said.

Mark Doyle of the Illinois Planning Council on Developmental Disabilities said federal legislation provides that special education students should be placed in "least restrictive environments," and inclusion conforms to that.

"We are creating the opportunity for kids to participate in the school they would attend if they didn't have a disability," he said. "We don't think that's a terribly original idea."

Doyle travels throughout the state giving presentations promoting inclusion.

"In the state of Illinois, 99 percent of special education students have never seen the inside of a regular classroom. They don't even start there. They are tested early and put among 17 categorical labels. Depending on the label, they are put with other kids with that label. That's unfortunate. Kids that have been 'included' have better outcomes than kids who weren't."

Under an inclusion set-up, students with disabilities may work on a project similar to what other pupils are doing. Sometimes other children will help and a special education aide is present so the classroom teacher is not expected to do it all alone.

"We have got to bring these two parties together," Doyle said. "We have created a myth for general ed teachers that only special ed teachers can educate kids with disabilities."

Charles Aschenbrenner, retired director of the Sangamon Area Special Education district, told of his efforts over the years to bring inclusion into classrooms near Springfield.

"Inclusion is a philosophy of education. It makes sense to have children with their peer groups. When they get out of school, labels are not significant. They fit in with society."

But parents and educators are divided on the issue of including disabled students in general classrooms.

"Some families don't want it," said inclusion group member and parent Joan Kane of Alton. "They have a lot of fears."

Opinions are divided throughout the field of education on how far to push inclusion.

"Philosophically, it's a great idea."

Practically, it is hard to do without a lot of assurances, including extra funding, said Bianca Slavelly, a psychologist for Region III Special Education Cooperative. "You have to have a lot of things in place. It is a real important movement. It's happening case by case."

Phelan says riverboats could help state's budget

Cook County Board President Richard Phelan, the third candidate to announced plans to seek the Democratic nomination for governor, has launched an assault on riverboat gambling.

Phelan, a multimillionaire former Chicago attorney, won the Cook County Board presidency in his first race for elective office in 1990.

Opening his campaign for the gubernatorial nomination Tuesday, Phelan targeted riverboat gambling as a potential source of additional state revenue.

"Why has the state given riverboat gambling owners the right to make millions of dollars while our education system cries for help?" Phelan asked.

He said if he is elected his administration would make riverboat casinos pay their fair share.

Phelan said he was considering two alternatives to boosting the state take from riverboat gambling.

One would involve the state retaining the gaming licenses and taking bids for casino operations, with all profits over a certain amount being kept by the state. The other alternative would be to "double or triple the tax," Phelan said.

Currently, the state gets 15 percent of gambling proceeds and $1 for every passenger, while local governments get 5 percent and a boarding tax of $1 per passenger.

Officials of Argosy Gaming Co., operator of the Alton Belle Casino, could not be reached for comment on Phelan's statement.

Phelan said the state deficit has increased during Edgar's nearly three years in office and vowed to "do what is necessary" to balance the budget.

He said he would consider increasing various user fees, possibly including license plate and professional registrations, and would not rule out state tax hikes, if necessary.

In his announcement speech, Phelan also took a strong stand for gun control, advocating banning assault weapons, licensing gun dealers and barring weapons from being sold near schools.

Economic indexes not always accurate

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

Economists are predicting slower-than-expected growth in the U.S. economy next year. But you don't have to take their word for it.

Armed with indicators with a proven track record of predicting future economic activity, you can make your own forecasts of the nation's economic health.

The trouble, of course, is finding those reliable indicators. That was the assignment three economists at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago gave themselves recently. Their findings: The "best" indicator depends on your time horizon.

The federal government's widely watched and awaited index of Leading Indicators is one of the best at predicting the next quarter's economic health, say economists Francesco Eugeni, Charles Evans and Steven Strongin.

However, the index isn't nearly as accurate forecasting the economy six to 12 months in the future, they write in "Economic Perspectives," a publication of the Chicago Fed.

Moreover, while the government's index is reliable during economic expansion, it doesn't perform as well during recessions.

The economists' examined 47 potential predictors of future economic activity — and none met the "best" test, none was accurate at all three time horizons of three, six and 12 months.

A single indicator that's reliable over all three time frames "probably does not exist," they conclude.

Nor is a single indicator necessarily desirable. "A Swiss Army knife is a fine general purpose tool, but it is hardly a substitute for a well-equipped workshop," they say.

So for each time horizon, the economists developed a formula that combines the indicators that perform best under each time line. These are the ingredients in each formula:

• If you're concerned about the next three months' of economic activity, look at the government's Index of Leading Indicators, plus two from the National Bureau of Economic Research, the Experimental Leading Index and the Experimental Recession Index.

The problem here: Both experimental indexes are more accurate than the government index, but they aren't widely reported.

• Looking six months out, the economists' formula includes the Experimental Leading Index (it was specifically designed for this time horizon), actual growth of the money supply, the rate spread between the 12-month Treasury bill and the federal funds rate (the interest rate banks charge each other for overnight borrowings) and the change in the interest rate on three-month Eurodollar bonds.

• For a 12-month forecast, the formula includes money supply growth, the 12-month 7-bill/fed funds spread, the rate spread between the 10-year Treasury bond and the fed funds rate, and the change in the federal funds rate itself.

SIU board OKs budget priorities

Engineering planning and construction projects at the Carbonale and Edwardsville campuses of Southern Illinois University are again high on the Universitywide capital budget priority list.

The list recently was approved by the Board of Trustees for submission to the Illinois Board of Higher Education as part of the Resource Allocation and Management Program documents for Fiscal year 1995.

Construction of an annex to the Engineering and Technology Building at SIUC, estimated to cost $12.9 million, was assigned second priority, while funds to complete planning and construction of a facility for the SIUC School of Engineering, estimated at $20.6 million, was ranked No. 3. Both projects were at the top of the list.

Number one on this year's list is $2.9 million for equipment for the Biological Sciences Building at SIUC. Other regular capital projects on the priority list include an annex to SIUC's Morris Library, $1 million (No. 4), and a supporting services annex at SIUC, $2.7 million (No. 5).

The priority list also includes a capital renewal project category.

Road rules class

Secretary of State George H. Ryan, in cooperation with the Veterans of Foreign Wars Ladies Auxiliary, is offering a Rules of the Road review course Saturday for all citizens in the Granite City area. This course is free to everyone, any age, who wishes to attend.

The two-hour course is designed to answer questions about the Rules of the Road and assist participants in preparation for examination. It is open to the public.

For more information, persons may call 452-0144 or 877-8764. Topics include written, vision and road tests.

The review course will be held from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9, at Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300.

Photographer hits courthouse roadblock

A security officer who claimed he was acting on a judge's order denied a newspaper cameraman a chance to photograph a murder suspect in the Madison County Courthouse.

Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Roy Gibson refused an Alton Telegraph photographer free access to the second floor of the courthouse Wednesday as other deputies escorted Terry Ridenour, a suspect in the JoAnn Dietzel murder, in and out of a courtroom.

Gibson told the photographer a judge had ordered all newspaper photographers and television camera technicians to remain in a blocked-off area on the second floor.

Madison County Chief Criminal Judge

Edward C. Ferguson denied issuing any such order but said he did ask a television cameraman to stay in a designated area to avoid blocking the prisoner's path from the elevator to the courtroom.

"I asked him (the TV cameraman) if he would stay near the entrance because he would still have a good shot (at the suspect)," Ferguson said. "I never mentioned anything about newspaper cameras. And I have not issued any orders about it."

Gibson refused to identify which judge supposedly issued the order.

"It's not my job to find out which judge said it," he told the photographer. "It's my job to enforce it."

After Ferguson denied issuing an order, Gibson recounted his earlier statements.

An official of the Illinois Press Association said barring photographers from public areas inside the courthouse may be a violation of the law.

"I can't believe they would try to keep anyone from the press out of a hallway," said Beth Bennett, the association's director of government affairs. "It sounds to me like someone was being a little overzealous."

A judge can issue an order pertaining to the inside of his courtroom, but I don't think he would try to play hall monitor," she added.

Volunteer helps heart outpatients exercise

When volunteer Michelle Randall helps out around the CardioPulmonary Rehabilitation office and in the Wellness Center at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, she does it not only to better her future but because she enjoys it.

"It started out that I needed the experience, but now I really like it," she said.

Randall began working in the Outpatient CardioPulmonary Rehab office in May after completing her second year at Murray State University in Murray, Ky. Donating between 36 and 38 hours a week to volunteer work, she has been an asset to the office but said she does not feel as though she has done anything above and beyond the call of duty.

"I don't necessarily think I'm a special person because I do this, I'm just really glad that I can help," she said.

pulling their oxygen tanks so they can be free to move their arms as they walk.

"I have met so many nice people," she said, "and they all seem to appreciate what I do for them."

Living healthy is part of Randall's lifestyle, but she said working with cardiopulmonary outpatients has opened her eyes to the importance of exercise and physical fitness.

"Exercise is somewhat ingrained in my own beliefs, but this has reinforced everything that I have learned in health classes," she said.

Majoring in Spanish with plans for an education degree, Randall does not intend to work in the medical field, but said she has learned an important lesson she can use in any classroom.

"Basically, you accept people for what they are and not other factors like their health," she said.

Remembering Jimmy Doolittle, and son

One man was surely remembered and missed at the 8th Air Force Historical Society reunion in Chicago last week.

Retired Gen. James H. Doolittle, the aviation pioneer who once commanded the 8th Air Force, died Sept. 27 at the age of 96.

Metro East resident John E. Greenwood was a member of "The Mighty 8th" when Doolittle was commander of the 300,000-member unit.

Greenwood said Tuesday that he remembers Doolittle well, in part because he and Doolittle's son, John, were classmates at Culver Military Academy in Northern Indiana. "We were the class of 1940. I met Jimmy when he would come visit John at school."

Later, he was our commanding officer in England in the 8th Air Force, which was the largest aerial fighting force in the history of aviation, when 2,004 engine bombers and 1,000 escorting fighters could be in the air on one mission. There is no way to describe it, the sound, the sight," Greenwood, of Alton, said.

Greenwood said that he and others will always consider themselves members of the 8th Air Force. Greenwood is president of the 8th Air Force Memorial Museum Foundation.

Greene would have been completed Oct. 20.

Kathy Rogers, president of PSNA, said Greene worked as a physician's assistant for her agency from February to July in 1992.

"He was terminated during his probationary period because his work was not up to our standards," Rogers said.

"But they need more help. I think the fact that [Bowie] did a lot of damage to a Ranger unit shows that they've got a lot of men."

Martin Sr. said his son had been able to tell him very little about the situation in Somalia. He said his son appeared discouraged and frustrated because of very strict limits on when the soldiers could fight back against the Somalis.

"He told me on the phone, 'when people were hunting you and trying to kill you with guns, isn't that war, dad?'" Martin Sr. said.

"I don't know why politicians have to run a war they know nothing about," he said.

"The government told us what we had to do, but if the broadcast networks go off cable, the customers will call us and not the government."

Miller said Crown Cable has been negotiating very hard and has developed a "good relationship" with all of the local broadcast stations.

"At no point was it problematic whether we would have to 'go dark' (today)," he said.

"We will continue to negotiate and are confident we will reach agreements with the remaining stations."

"The best news for customers is they will be able to see the full programming without the hassles. Nobody will have to get up out of their chair."

Tentative agreement enables Roxana pupils to return to class

ROXANA — Pupils were back in class Monday after teachers approved a tentative agreement, ending their weeklong strike.

The tentative contract was ratified by the teachers' union, the Roxana Education Association, about 10 p.m. Sunday after an eight-hour bargaining session with the School Board.

The pact was hashed out as about 200 parents and students pounded the pavement outside Roxana High School.

About 100 teachers and 2,658 students returned to classes Monday.

Officials said details of the three-year pact would be revealed Thursday if the board gives its final approval.

"We're happy to be back doing what we do best: teaching," said education association chief negotiator David Ammon.

Teachers picketed the high school Sept. 27 after rejecting an offer that called for a 5 percent pay hike that included a 1 percent step increase, leaving only 4 percent for the salary schedule.

Ammon would not say how the impasse was settled.

"We were satisfied enough with the contract that we accepted it," he said.

Republicans, is considering a run at the state senate seat on the GOP ticket.

Among candidates whose names have been mentioned in the treasurer's race include Auditor Fred Benne, County Board member Alan Dunstan and former Madison bank official Jim Foley.

Bowles has endorsed Edwards-ville attorney Stephanie Robbins to succeed her in the clerk's position.

Other names that have been mentioned in the county clerk's race are Venice Mayor Tyrone Bowles, who has taken out petitions for the position, and Debbie Saltich, an aide to U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello in his Granite City office.

Circuit Clerk Matt Melucci, a former clerk to Costello, and Madison County Board Chairman Nellie Hagauer are said to be backing Saltich in the county clerk's race.

Melucci, who was elected Circuit Clerk last year, broke with DEMCO tradition this year when he announced that he would not run in the organization's annual fund-raiser.

Former Circuit Clerk Willard "Butch" Fortell was an ardent supporter of the event, and often recruited St. Louis-area sports personalities such as Orville Smith and Whitley Herzog to attend the DEMCO fund-raiser.

Other countywide offices to be elected next year include sheriff and regional superintendent of schools.

Incumbents in those two positions — Bob Churchill and Harry A. Briggs Jr., both Democrats — have given no indication that they will seek re-election.

The steelworkers' four-year contract expired Thursday night, Sept. 30, but company and union officials announced the tentative agreement Friday morning following a 21-hour marathon negotiating session.

Local 3643, formed in 1944, has never struck the company.

About 600 Steelworkers attending two union meetings Sept. 18 unanimously authorized a strike.

Many union members have said they are bitter because, between 1984 and 1988, Laclede bought five subsidiaries — at least three of them non-union — with the help of concessions from the union and tax breaks from the city of Alton.

The number of union jobs in Alton fell from 1,500 in 1983 to 840 in 1991, the union attributes to the company's moving of jobs and work to the subsidiaries.

Union officials said they were taken off guard in April 1991 when Laclede President John B. McKinney told a newspaper that as many as half of the Alton plant's 1,200 union jobs could be moved to Laclede subsidiaries within a decade.

About 100 jobs have been moved since then.

The company said the union has been told repeatedly, including in 1989 contract talks, that the company cannot afford to pay union wages in Alton for labor-intensive tasks like pipe and wire finishing.

The average pay for Steelworkers at Alton is $15 an hour and costs the company twice that when benefits are included. The company says the labor cost is about half that at its subsidiaries.

The company lost $7.5 million last year and $8.3 million in 1991. It made money in each of the 1980s when workers gave temporary concessions and the company bought several of its subsidiaries.

— From the Alton Telegraph

At current spending levels, the reserve could be reduced to about $4 million by 1997, a figure board members said is dangerously low.

Most governmental units like to keep enough reserves on hand to cover three months in expenditures as a cushion against unforeseen events. For Madison County, three months' spending equals about $6.2 million.

Truxton Allen

Truxton Allen, 77, of Granite City died at 8 a.m. Monday, Oct. 4, 1993, at Anna Henry Nursing Home, Edwardsville, after being ill more than a year.

Mr. Allen was born June 16, 1916, in Granite City, where he had been a lifelong resident. A supervisor of the shipping department at National Lead and NL Industries in Granite City for 40 years, he retired July 1, 1978.

He was a member of Niedringhaus Methodist Church in Granite City and American Legion Post 113 in Granite City and was a World War II Army veteran.

Survivors include his wife, Dolores P. (Summerton) Allen, whom he married June 1, 1940, in Granite City; one son, Larry T. Allen of Collinsville; one brother, the Rev. Robert Allen of Whiting, Ind.; and one grandson.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Leonard and Eva (Smith) Allen; and one brother, Lynn Allen, who died in 1990.

Services are at 11 a.m. today at Irwin Chapel, 3960 Maryville Road, Granite City, with the Rev. Bennie V. Vandom officiating. Burial will be at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates, Glen Carbon.

Memorials are requested for Niedringhaus Methodist Church, Granite City, or the American Cancer Society.

Collinsville man killed in Somalia

By Matt Richter

Staff writer

A Collinsville man was one of at least five U.S. servicemen killed in fighting in Somalia on Sunday.

Pvt. Jim Martin Jr., 23, had been stationed in Somalia for about three months. His father, Jim Martin Sr., of Collinsville, said he was notified of his son's death at about 1 p.m. Monday.

Martin Jr. was a member of the elite Army Rangers' Mountain Division, based in Fort Drum, N.Y., his father said.

He was married to the former Lori Grass of Belleville. The couple had no children.

The Rangers were involved in an action Sunday pitting United Nations troops against fighters under the control of Somali warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid. Two U.S. Army Blackhawk helicopters were shot down in the fighting.

According to official reports, as of Monday night at least 20 Americans were killed in skirmishes, 78 wounded, and several were believed to have been captured.

Jim Martin Sr. said he sees parallels between his own military service in Korea and the United States' involvement in Somalia.

In both cases, he said, "politicians kept troops from doing the job they were trained for."

"I'm still in support of (the operation in Somalia)," he said.

"But they need more help. I think the fact that [Bowie] did a lot of damage to a Ranger unit shows that they've got a lot of men."

Martin Sr. said his son had been able to tell him very little about the situation in Somalia. He said his son appeared discouraged and frustrated because of very strict limits on when the soldiers could fight back against the Somalis.

"He told me on the phone, 'when people were hunting you and trying to kill you with guns, isn't that war, dad?'" Martin Sr. said.

"I don't know why politicians have to run a war they know nothing about," he said.

Cable, network contracts expected

By Mike Myers

Staff writer

Crown Cable Television will have reached consent agreements to carry the federal Act, cable television carriers had until today to reach agreements with local broadcast stations or lose the right to carry those stations' signals.

The law allowed the broadcasters, whose programming was always picked up at no cost by the cable companies, to negotiate for a share of the cable company revenue.

Miller said that while Crown Cable agreed to negotiate "in good faith," the company "adamantly and publicly made it clear we would not consider making cash payments" to the broadcast stations.

"If we were to pay for the right to carry those stations, it would mean us to raise rates," Miller said.

"It would have the effect of making the subscribers pay for programming that non-cable subscribers receive at no cost."

"It has always been our position to keep rates as low as possible. We will not consider raising our rates in order to provide customers with otherwise free programming."

In a worst-case scenario, cable customers would have been forced to use "rabbit ears" or an outside antenna to receive the local stations.

In order to keep its customers from having to go through the process of connecting and disconnecting the cable and outside antenna each time they went between cable and broadcast stations, Crown Cable was prepared to offer A-B switches at cost for its customers.

"It's something that you could get at retail stores, but buying at volume for all of our customers we could get them cheaply," Miller said.

"As much as possible, we wanted to avoid any inconvenience for our customers."

Miller said the switches, while preferable to hooking up and unhooking wires each time, would still need to be switched manually.

More than 400 unemployed parents in Illinois have participated in a new experience program retraining them to do computer work in exchange for their family life checks.

Acting Public Aid Director Robert W. Wright said, "Illinois is ahead of the states in complying with the federal requirement to start work experience programs, our effort is running. We expect to 1,000 unemployed parents next year."

The Illinois Department of Public Aid created the Family Support Act of 1993, federal deadline set for the end of 1993, federal deadline set for the end of 1993, federal deadline set for the end of 1993.

By Sept. 30, 1994, state required to have 40 percent of two-parent households receive Aid to Families of Dependent Children participation in a work experience program. "Receiving public assistance to work in exchange for a better future for their children. This new initiative is one that can lead them to sufficiency," Wright said.

About 600 Steelworkers attending two union meetings Sept. 18 unanimously authorized a strike.

Many union members have said they are bitter because, between 1984 and 1988, Laclede bought five subsidiaries — at least three of them non-union — with the help of concessions from the union and tax breaks from the city of Alton.

The number of union jobs in Alton fell from 1,500 in 1983 to 840 in 1991, the union attributes to the company's moving of jobs and work to the subsidiaries.

Union officials said they were taken off guard in April 1991 when Laclede President John B. McKinney told a newspaper that as many as half of the Alton plant's 1,200 union jobs could be moved to Laclede subsidiaries within a decade.

About 100 jobs have been moved since then.

The company said the union has been told repeatedly, including in 1989 contract talks, that the company cannot afford to pay union wages in Alton for labor-intensive tasks like pipe and wire finishing.

The average pay for Steelworkers at Alton is $15 an hour and costs the company twice that when benefits are included. The company says the labor cost is about half that at its subsidiaries.

The company lost $7.5 million last year and $8.3 million in 1991. It made money in each of the 1980s when workers gave temporary concessions and the company bought several of its subsidiaries.

Most governmental units like to keep enough reserves on hand to cover three months in expenditures as a cushion against unforeseen events. For Madison County, three months' spending equals about $6.2 million.

Creativity at bedtime helps children sleep

By Jane Cosby
Correspondent

Most parents yell at and threaten their children in the name of discipline because they don't know any other way to handle the problems they are encountering.

Authors Denise Chapman Weston and Mark W. Weston have written a recipe book for parents like this. Their book, "Playful Parenting: Turning the Dilemma of Discipline Into Fun and Games" (Jeremy P. Tarcher, Inc., $14.95) offers 300 activities for solving child behavior problems.

The activities cover everything from teasing and bullying to responsibility and family chores. Not surprisingly, none of the activities recommended by the two family therapists involves yelling or threatening your children.

The following activities are suggested by the authors to parents facing one of the most common discipline dilemmas—sleep problems.

• Bedtime Soap Opera: Give your child a good reason to get in his bed. Make up an ongoing story and continue it each evening before bed. Make the characters people in your home, but change the names slightly to make the story funny. Always leave the end a mystery. Make your child wait until the next night to find out what happens next.

• Bed Haven: Create a fun environment for your child to sleep in. Use sheets to make his bed into a tent. Put a bookshelf filled with books and quiet-time toys near your child's bed.

• The Good Night/Good Day Recordings: Keep a journal with your child that records what was special about his day. Record it or write it in a special book. Spend some special time with your child listening to the tape or reading some of the entries before bed.

• Safe-and-Sound Book or Video: Have your child write a brief story about people, things or events in his world that are safe. The story should focus on how these safe things continue to be safe throughout the night. Encourage him to write things like, "Parents are in the next room." "We have smoke detectors in case of a fire." or "I know where to call the police."

Read the book together when your child needs assurance about going to sleep. Turn the book into a video your child can watch before going to sleep.

• The Give-It-A-Rest Drawer: Explain to your child that he can put his worries and concerns aside for the evening so he can get a good night's sleep. Write down or draw pictures of the worries and concerns he has and put them in a special drawer for safekeeping.

• Wake-Up Watchmen: Take turns being the family alarm clock. Give the wake-up person an alarm clock and the times everyone has to get up. Make a family game out of trying to wake up people creatively.

• Wake-Up Map: If your child wakes up before you are ready to get up in the morning, map out his morning routine for him. Put numbers or labels on activities you want him to perform in the morning.

For example, put a No. 1 on his toothbrush to tell him to brush his teeth first. A No. 2 on his clothes tells him to get dressed next. No. 3 is on the cereal box and milk carton. No. 4 is on the video he can watch and No. 5 is on a coloring book and crayons. Explain the routine before he goes to bed.

Autumn's weather entices the kitchen to a fall harvest when it's warm and sunny. The feeling is just what you need to get the most out of the season's bounty. Coming home from the classroom or drawing room, the warm, aromatic, easy meal is just what you need. Traditionally, pork, onions, cabbage seasonings. Many people

Warm 'n' Wonderful

Autumn's warm-by-day, cool-by-night weather entices people back to the kitchen to eat — and maybe even cook. The feeling harkens back to days of the fall harvest when it was time to dig bountiful crops from the earth, pick cool-weather greens and fruits and butcher animals made plump during summer's growth.

Coming home from computer screen, classroom or drawing board to the kitchen at dusk creates an opportunity to make an aromatic, easy meal that entices everyone to sit down and eat. Traditional autumn dishes include pork, onions, cabbage, apples and savory seasonings. Many people put them together in

BAVARIAN CHOPS

- 2 giant sweet onions, peeled, sliced 1/4 inch thick
- 2 tbsp. oil, divided
- 2 tsp. flour
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 4 boneless pork loin chops, 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 8 oz. mushrooms, sliced
- 1/2 tsp. thyme
- 1 cup beer, at room temperature

Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
Cooked spinach noodles, if desired
Minced fresh parsley, if desired

In nonstick skillet over medium-high heat, brown onions on both sides in 1 tablespoon oil. Remove from skillet. Combine flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Mix well. Dredge pork chops in seasoned flour. Brown chops quickly on both sides, adding remaining oil if necessary. Remove chops.

In same skillet, sauté garlic, mushrooms and thyme for 1 minute. Mix remaining seasoned flour into mushroom mixture if slightly thickened sauce is desired. Return chops and onion to skillet. Add beer. Bring to boil. Reduce heat. Simmer, covered, 8 to 12 minutes. Season to taste with salt and freshly ground pepper.

Serve with noodles. Garnish with parsley.
Makes 4 servings.

Rhine-style, maybe even cooking in hearty beer or wine. However, wandering ethnic backgrounds and up-to-the-minute travelers add their own favorite flavor twists, such as roast seasoned with Italian subtleties like fennel and oregano and baked with onions and sweet red bell peppers.

Hedy Wurz, who recently co-authored the "New German Cookbook" with Jean Anderson (Harper Collins, $25), says, "There is a kind of stereotyping of what German food is, but it is much more varied than they had before. There are so many foreigners now from all over the world who have brought their daily vegetables, too, like broccoli and zucchini and fruit like mangoes."

Just as in the United States, Germans today often have salad instead of soup. Light sauces replace heavier ones and fowl is preferred much leaner. Turnips have turned into a high-class vegetable, but plentiful cabbage in its many forms continues to be a favorite.

"Sauerkraut actually comes from China. When they built the Great Wall, they wanted something fresh to serve them during the day, but the cabbage was spoiling, so they soaked it in rice wine. They must have been very happy workers," Wurz said.

The main meal in Germany is eaten at noon, with cold cuts and salad as a regular feature in the evening. Spirited family schedules here point to a different way of life. In spite of that, a full-fledged meal is possible even on weeknights. Pork chops can be ready in 20 minutes. Extra cooking does not ensure extra-delicious pork; the meat only turns tough. As a general rule, pork should be cooked until juices just run clear.

Potatoes — another American autumn favorite — and dumplings always have been an anchor on traditional German tables. So is hearty rye or black bread, another quick addition to a meal. For after-work side dishes, consider noodles, slice tomatoes and offer fresh fruit for dessert. Fruit salad and apple cider are sweet, refreshing accompaniments, too.

Vegetables during this season are hearty, reflecting a close relationship with the soil. Wurz's recipe for cabbage simmered with apples and onions in red wine is in the cookbook.

Sauerkraut salad is an excellent American partner to sausage-on-a-bun for a quick dinner. This version comes from former rodeo bull rider Buster Childers' and his wife, Sylvia. It was served to food editors at a High Plains barbecue at the recent National Beef Cook-Off in Wyoming. It combines familiar fall flavor with the convenience of a dish — originally served on cattle roundups — that holds in the refrigerator up to a week. It will be in a forthcoming ranch cookbook, "Spirit of the Harvest, North American Indian Cooking," by Beverly Cox and Martin Jacobs.

Some cooks may feel roast is only a weekend

ITALIAN PORKETTA

- 3 tbsp. oil, divided
- 1 tsp. fennel seed
- 1 tsp. lemon-pepper seasoning
- 1/4 tsp. leaf oregano
- 1/4 tsp. onion powder
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 2 to 4 lb. boneless pork roast
- 2 or 3 giant sweet onions, peeled, cut in wedges
- 1 large red bell pepper, cut in bite-size pieces

Preheat oven to 325°.

Combine fennel, onion powder and garlic powder. Coat pork with mixture. Place pork on rack in shallow pan. Surround with onion wedges. Roast in preheated oven 45 minutes to 1 1/2 hours, depending on size and shape of roast or until meat thermometer registers 155° to 160°. Add peppers to pan during last 30 minutes of roasting. Let roast rest 5 to 10 minutes before carving.

A 2-pound roast yields about 8 servings.

dish. While it may need a couple hours to bake, it requires no tending, so let the first person home put it already coated with a savory blend of seeds and herbs in the oven for a middle-of-the-week treat, or cook one large enough on Sunday to slice for an instant dinner during the week. A simmered pot of meat and vegetables usually tastes better after it has had time to mesh flavors anyway, so cook enough for more than one meal.

BRAISED RED CABBAGE

With onions and apples in red wine sauce

- 1 large red cabbage (about 2 lb.)
- 2 tbsp. unsalted butter or margarine
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1 large yellow onion, peeled, finely chopped
- 2 large tart green apples, peeled, cored, coarsely chopped
- 1/4 cup red wine vinegar
- 1 cup rich beef broth, homemade if possible, divided
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 large bay leaves
- 2 tsp. flour
- 1 cup dry red wine, preferably German
- 2 tsp. red currant jelly

Trim coarse outer leaves from cabbage and discard. Quarter cabbage, slice off hard white core at point of each quarter and discard, then slice each quarter very thin. Set aside.

Melt butter in large heavy skillet over moderately high heat. Sprinkle with sugar. Heat 2 to 3 minutes until just dissolved. Add onion and apple. Stir-fry about 5 minutes until limp and golden. Add cabbage. Stir-fry about 5 minutes until glazed. Add vinegar and 1/4 cup broth. When mixture simmers, adjust heat so liquid bubbles gently. Sprinkle with salt. Add bay leaves, pushing them into cabbage. Simmer, covered, 20 to 25 minutes until cabbage is tender-crisp.

Sprinkle flour over cabbage. Toss well to mix. Add wine and remaining 1/4 cup broth. Heat, stirring gently 3 to 5 minutes until liquids are thickened and starch taste is gone. Remove and discard bay leaves. Toss mixture lightly with jelly to mix.

Warm, uncovered, 5 minutes longer before serving.
Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Seafood shines in flavorful, no-fuss dishes

Celebrate October as National Seafood Month with a net full of great-tasting, easy, elegant suppers starring seafood.

To keep the festivities fuss-free, sidestep the shells, smells and hassle that seafood preparation can involve with two crowd-pleasing recipes that begin with fully-cooked imitation crab or lobster surimi seafood, so they go from start to serving in minutes.

Taste buds travel south of the border with Creamy Seafood Enchiladas. Surprisingly simple to prepare, they feature all the savory flavors favored at Mexican restaurants. Assembled in a few short minutes, the quick mix of seafood, salsa, cream cheese and crunchy vegetables is rolled into flour tortillas, briefly baked and served with a variety of help-yourself toppings.

When the flavors of the Far East beckon, turn to Sweet-and-Sour Seafood. A Chinese carry-over favorite, it takes on fresh appeal prepared with two choices of crab- or lobster-flavored surimi. Best of all, it's ready to serve over rice with less than 10 minutes cooking.

Anyone who has a favorite original recipe that relies on Louis Kemp crab or lobster surimi seafood for its streamlined preparation and special appeal—or who wants to try to create one—can win up to $5,000 in the Louis Kemp "Easy Seafood Delights" Recipe Contest.

An original recipe can be an appetizer, main dish, salad, soup or sandwich, as long as it looks and tastes great and is easy to prepare. Entries must be postmarked by Dec. 20. For details and complete contest rules, send name and address to: Rules, Louis Kemp Seafood Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 11192, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Creamy seafood enchiladas

- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) imitation crab or lobster surimi seafood, shredded
- 1 1/2 cups picante sauce or salsa, divided
- 1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 cup finely chopped red or green bell pepper
- 1/2 cup sliced green onion with tops
- 1 tsp. garlic powder
- 8 flour tortillas (7 inch)
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Monterey Jack cheese
- Optional toppings: sliced ripe olives, chopped tomato and shredded lettuce

Preheat oven to 350°. Lightly grease 11-by-7-inch baking dish. Combine seafood, 1/2 cup picante sauce, cream cheese, red pepper, onion and garlic powder. Mix well.

Spoon about 1/2 cup mixture down center of each tortilla. Roll up. Place seam-side down in prepared dish. Spoon remaining picante sauce evenly over enchiladas.

Bake in preheated oven 20 minutes. Sprinkle with shredded cheese. Bake about 3 minutes longer until cheese is melted. Top as desired.

Makes 4 servings.

Sweet-and-sour seafood

- 1 large green bell pepper, cut in 1/4 inch chunks
- 1 tbsp. oil
- 1 can (8 oz.) pineapple chunks in juice
- 3 tbsp. brown sugar
- 3 tbsp. cider vinegar
- 2 tsp. soy sauce
- 1 tsp. cornstarch
- 1 tsp. cold water

- 1/4 to 1/2 tsp. ginger
- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) imitation crab or lobster surimi seafood, chunks or flakes
- 3 cups hot cooked rice

In medium saucepan, cook pepper in hot oil, stirring frequently, 3 minutes.

In medium bowl, combine pineapple with juice, brown sugar, vinegar, soy sauce, and cornstarch dissolved in water. Mix well. In saucepan, bring pineapple mixture and seafood to boil. Cook and stir 1 minute or until sauce is thickened.

Serve over rice. Makes 4 servings.

Microwave can provide treats that are morning eye-openers

By Betty Serati
Microwave specialist

Breakfast is a meal too important to miss. Unfortunately, it is served at a time of day when children as well as adults often are on the run.

One solution to this dilemma is granola, usually somewhat sweet, combines various grains, fruits and nuts. Muesli, derived from a German word meaning "mixture," is a popular variety with cereals and fruits.

Granola or muesli most often is bought as a prepared cereal. However, there are delicious ways to eat it besides just dumping it in a bowl and pouring milk on top. One flavor variation is to combine it with oatmeal.

Preparing this breakfast treat in a microwave oven is a must with a crazy, never-lazy, morning schedule looming ahead. Microwave preparation means cooking and serving in a single microwave-safe bowl — in less than five minutes from start to finish.

Bring 1 cup water to boil in microwave-safe bowl — about 2 minutes on high power. Stir in ½ cup uncooked oats. Cook 1 minute on high power until cereal is cooked and thickened. Stir in 1 medium banana, sliced; ½ cup raisins, and ¼ cup granola cereal. The result is a taste treat guaranteed to get breakfast-skippers to ask for more.

For a portable breakfast, Breakfast Granola Bars makes use of prepared granola. They are nourishing, delicious and, best of all, microwave-easy.

Granola breakfast bars
2 cups granola cereal
¼ cup packed brown sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 cup chopped dried apricots
½ cup coarsely chopped pecans

½ tsp. vanilla
¼ tsp. salt

In large mixing bowl, combine granola, brown sugar, egg, apricots, pecans, vanilla and salt. Mix well.

Line 8-inch square glass dish with waxed paper, allowing paper to extend over edges. Press mixture firmly into prepared pan.

Cook in microwave oven on high power 3½ to 4 minutes until set. Cool 5 minutes. Remove from pan. Cool completely before cutting. Makes 16 bars.

If you have questions or comments about microwave cooking, send them to: "Over the Waves," 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, Mo. 63111.

Coleslaw sets new pace for Reuben

Inspired by the Reuben sandwich well known and loved, the Iowa Machine Food's smoked turkey and Swiss version could become a classic at home, too.

"The restaurant's adaptation of the classic features mesquite smoked turkey, Swiss cheese, creamy celery seed coleslaw and thousand island salad dressing on marbled rye bread made at the restaurant. The sandwich is grilled so it is buttery and crusty outside, cheesy and creamy inside.

The sandwich pays tribute to farmers from its creamy, cheesy insides, that melt into crunchy coleslaw and onto grain-heavy fresh bread.

The sandwich is ready-to-be-made with ingredients from almost any supermarket. For easy preparation, use pre-sliced Swiss cheese and deli coleslaw. If the slaw does not have celery seeds, add them at home. This sandwich can be a whole meal, so take it easy on accompaniments with some dill pickle spears and carrot sticks.

Smoked turkey Reuben

4 slices (½ to ¾ inch thick) rye bread, marbled if possible
2 tbsp. thousand island salad dressing
½ cup creamy-style coleslaw with celery seed
0.2 oz. thinly sliced mesquite smoked turkey breast
4 slices (1 oz. each) Swiss cheese
2 tbsp. butter

Divide equal amounts thousand island dressing between 2 slices bread. Top with coleslaw, turkey and cheese. Top each sandwich with second slice bread.

Melt butter in large nonstick skillet over medium-low to medium heat. In skillet, cook each side of sandwich until golden brown and sandwich is heated through.

Makes 2 sandwiches.

Only grate yellow part of fresh lemon peel

When grating lemon peel, it is important not to remove any of the bitter white portion known as the pith. To obtain the most juice from a fresh lemon, let it come to room temperature. After pressing down firmly, roll the whole lemon on the counter. One small lemon yields about 1 teaspoon grated peel and about 2 tablespoons juice.

Popular alternative to swimming is water walking—striding through water that's waist- or chest-deep. Two advantages, water offers continuous resistance to movement and support for aching joints.

Water running is a more intense workout. Wearing flotation vests, exercisers "run" in water that's too deep to stand in.

Food knowhow: low-fat milk is a super source of calcium; cottage cheese isn't. For the same calories, it has just one-quarter the calcium in milk—less if you choose no-cream varieties.

Most unlikely "fitness" equipment is the old-fashioned push mower. Increasingly popular because it's relatively inexpensive, quieter and safer than gas-powered electric mowers, and non-polluting, too. Consider: pushing a mower burns 300 to 400 calories an hour.

Smart exercisers warm up for five to 10 minutes before plunging into their usual activity, jogging slowly before running, switching easily before playing tennis.

Flyers' arsenal wears down Warriors

East Side offense comes alive after giveaways in first half

By R.J. Gerber
Staff writer

Forcing three East St. Louis turnovers in the opening quarter wasn't enough to keep Granite City in the ballgame Saturday against the Flyers in a Southwestern Conference matchup at Jordan Stadium.

The Warriors, now 2-3 overall and 1-2 in the SWC, could only manage a field goal after intercepting two Stacy Stevenson passes and recovering a fumble in the game's first 10:08.

THE FLYERS WENT ON to score 28 consecutive points en route to a 34-10 victory. The win improved East Side to 3-2 and 1-1.

Warrior coach Don Harris said although his defensive squad came up with some big plays early, the Flyers were equal to the task.

"We couldn't put the ball in the end zone. They really stiffened up (after the turnovers)," Harris said.

Gators (2-0) sending Sikora out in style

By Scott Wuerz
Correspondent

Grigsby Junior High football coach John Sikora has seen a lot of winning teams in his 26 seasons at the school. But the coach may be saving his best for last, as the Gators are undefeated so far in his final season.

Grigsby is 2-0, with a 20-0 victory over Bethalto and a convincing 28-0 win over Edwardsville — traditionally one of the better junior high programs in the area.

SIKORA SAID HIS team has been successful in past seasons. The Gators posted a 3-2 record in 1990 and a 4-1 mark in 1991 — but none has matched this team in consistency throughout the lineup.

"The last two seasons we've had very good ballclubs, but these boys work exceptionally well with the coaches and with each other," Sikora said. "Our offense has mixed the run and pass extremely well and really opens things up by stretching the field. On the other side of the ball, our first-string defense hasn't given up a point in our first two games."

Sikora credits much of the success of his offense to quarterback Travis Ravelle.

Travis is very good at mixing things up and making the plays," Sikora said. "He is a great example of the reason this club has been successful: the players keep their heads in the game and they execute."

Spikers fall short, settle for fourth

By Mike Kelly

It was there for the taking, but the Lady Warriors let it slip away.

Granite City High's volleyball team had a chance to bring home the third-place trophy Saturday at the Collinsville Invitational. A convincing 16-14, 15-2 victory over the host Lady Kaskas lifted Granite City (7-8) into the final four.

BUT THE LADY Warriors stumbled, slipped and fell against Carbondale, 15-8, 12-15, 12-19 in the third-place game and had to settle for fourth.

"We had too many serving errors," Granite City coach Cindy Gagich said. "Yes, we're bringing home a trophy, but it's not the one we wanted. We're definitely not satisfied with this performance."

The Lady Warriors began their downfall in the second set. Leading 6-0, the Lady Warriors went dormant while Carbondale put together a 12-point run and seized the momentum. Granite City fought back to within a point, 13-12, but a pair of kills by Rachel Halteman evened up the match at a set apiece.

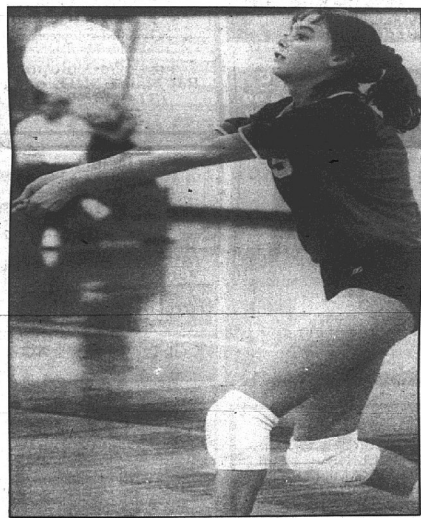

"We had total control of the match until that lockdown," Gagich said. "After they caught up, they got their second wind and we couldn't shake them. A coaching mistake on my part didn't help matters, either."

WITH THE SCORE tied 15-15 late in the third set, Gagich was penalized for an illegal substitution, which gave Carbondale a 16-15 lead.

"My scorekeepers usually keep me informed about my substitutions," Gagich said. "I didn't have that luxury today. I didn't realize Jamie (Cavanaugh) had used up her three legal substitutions. It was my mistake. I'll make it a point to keep better track of it next time."

But the Lady Warriors battled back to take a 17-16 lead on Teri Yurko's kill. Unfortunately for Granite City, Jenni Rivers put Carbondale in the winner's circle with two consecutive kills of her own.

Earlier in the day, the Lady Warriors didn't have much trouble disposing of Collinsville

(9-8-2) For the second time in four days, Saturday's victory was nearly a carbon copy of Tuesday's 15-9, 15-1 blowout.

"IT'S TOUGH losing twice in the same week to Granite City," Collinsville coach Nona Holstrom said. "But we can play with them. Our kids just don't have a collegiate mentality yet."

"But it's coming, we were in our first killing us in the second set."

A pair of service points by Krista Esker tied up the match, 14-14. But an out-of-bounds play gave Granite City possession.

Cavanaugh took charge of the situation and buried home a pair of kills for the win. The Lady Warriors never broke stride in the second set and opened up a commanding 13-0 lead.

NOTES: Granite City split its other two tournament games Saturday. The Lady Warriors defeated Centralia 15-9, 15-5, but lost to East St. Louis Lincoln 15-10, 15-6. Red Bud defeated Lincoln 16-14, 14-16, 15-10 to win the tournament.

The Warrior golf team tuned up for Tuesday's Class AA Regional with a sixth-place finish Saturday at the Mascoutah Invitational.

THE WARRIORS FINISHED with a 331 at the tournament, held at Cardinal Creek. Mater Dei shot 315 to top the 12-team field.

Granite City was coming off Thursday's first-place performance in the Southwestern Conference Tournament at Spencer T. Olin in Alton, but coach Russ Chappell was not disappointed with Saturday's showing.

"We could have done better," Chappell said. "But it was probably our best performance at Cardinal Creek in a while. We wanted our kids to go there and work on their game."

Park District grid program in full swing

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Granite City Park District kicked off its third year of competitive youth flag football Saturday with its highest turnout yet and a brand new scoreboard at Worthen Park.

The program, which began as a camp four years ago under the direction of flag football director Joe Wallace, has grown each year. The six-team league is for boys in fourth through sixth grade.

"YOU WOULD NOT believe how much they'll progress from Saturday until the end of the season," Wallace said. "We stress the fundamentals and try to teach them the game."

"It's going to be a fun year. Basically, we're going in the right direction."

The program provides area youngsters ages 9-11 a chance to learn the game before entering junior high school. Wallace said a number of players attended the park district's first camp and have returned each year. This year, the park district raised enough money through the sale of T-shirts to purchase a portable scoreboard for use Monday and Wednesday nights under the lights at Worthen Park.

"We've tried to improve on it each year," Wallace said. "We're stronger than we were last year. The park has worked really well with us. (Recreation supervisor) Ray Hoffman has helped us with everything we've asked for."

EACH TEAM IS made up of approximately 24 players. Wallace was hoping to provide a team for third-grade players, but the league fell shy of enough entrants.

To accommodate those who did sign up, Wallace said, instruction will be provided before games.

"We'll still have guys who can work with them," Wallace said. "They need the experience. That's what it's all about."

One of the reasons for the league's success is (See PARK, Page 3D)

SLUH shuts out Granite City in tourney opener

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Granite City soccer team's struggles with adversity continued Monday in a 2-0 loss to St. Louis University High in the opening round of the Tournament of Champions.

THE WARRIORS, riddled by injuries, came away empty in another game with a St. Louis-area ranked team. SLUH's Drew Krafick scored two goals in the second half to give Junior Billkins coach Charlie Martel his first Granite City tournament win on his first try.

"It feels really good," Martel said, in his first season at SLUH. "But all the credit has to go to the players. We're starting to put things together now."

The Warriors, for now, cannot say the same. Several key injuries have tested the team's depth. Goalkeeper Mike Hristal missed Monday's game with a groin injury, and junior Jayson York made his first varsity start in goal.

Dave Kasproovich, the Warriors' No. 1 goalie, continued filling in at sweeper for Corey Kessler, out with a hip injury. Scott Nemeth (groin) and Matt Little (knee) were also on the sidelines.

STILL, COACH Gene Baker has been disappointed with the results so far. The Warriors dropped to 0-4-1.

"We're not thinking right now," Baker said. "We're not in the game mentally."

Granite City could not cash in on several key opportunities against SLUH. After a scoreless first half, the Warriors surrendered a goal at the 42:28 mark on a Krafick header.

The Warriors missed out on a big break when they were awarded an indirect kick rather than a penalty kick when Jared Raftery was taken down in the box with just under 20 minutes left in the game.

On the resulting play, John Nizinski hit the goalpost with a rocket and SLUH goalkeeper Greg Jermak made a save on another shot to survive Granite City's best scoring chance of the game.

York made several more tough stops at the second half." Baker said. "He made some nice saves."

SLUH, 8-5-2, was coming off Saturday's tough loss to Vianney. The Junior Billikens had a 1-0 lead with nine minutes left regulation and lost 3-1 in overtime.

SLUH played most of Monday's game in a defensive mode, waiting for opportunities to open up on transition.

"We're really been working on switching fields," Martel said. "I feel real good about this team right now."

In other tournament action Monday, Hazelwood Central tied Parkway South 1-1. St. Mary's shut out O'Fallon 3-0 and Vianney defeated Chaminade 2-0.

League play consists of a 10-game schedule that runs through October and concludes Nov. 8 with a title game. A running clock will be used, and games will consist of 32-minute halves.

Wallace said he is looking forward to this season, and he hopes to see the program expand in the future.

"We're looking forward to the next couple of years," Wallace said. "Football in this community is solid. There's a good foundation of people, and I don't know if it's been tapped yet."

"I've been at Grigsby since the door opened 26 years ago and have been associated with the football team since Day One," Sikora said. "What really makes it worthwhile is the sense of accomplishment you feel watching players learn the game over the course of the season."

"Sometimes the fans don't realize that a sizable portion of these boys spend their first day of practice learning how to put the equipment on. When you watch them at this point of the season successfully completing the plays as a team, it really means something."

Despite the lack of emphasis on victory on the junior high level, Sikora would like to end his final season at Grigsby with one more trophy.

Grigsby traditionally ends its season against crosstown rival Coolidge. The winner earns bragging rights when the players become freshmen teammates at Granite City High School.

Grigsby has a slight edge in the last five seasons, a 3-2 advantage, but this season the game has a bit more meaning.

"This rivalry is as old as the football teams at Coolidge and Grigsby, but things are going to be a little different this year in that the game will be the first held at night in 10 years," Sikora said.

Sikora also said this season, the winner of the game will receive a traveling trophy, heightening the players' interest.

"The coaches at this level always stress being a teacher first," he said. "But it would be nice to come out of that one last game a winner."

"The blocking has been exceptional and has allowed us to do a lot of different things."

Dennis Holland and Juanell Goodman have led Grigsby in the running department this season, with Holland also performing punting and place-kicking duties. Among the leading scorers is tight end Tim Wallace, who has three touchdown catches.

Sikora said he is pleased but not surprised by the performance of his team because of its winning tradition and work ethic.

"I've had an opportunity to see these boys play at the seventh-grade level and we knew we had some who could play, but I've really got to hand it to the team as a whole because they have worked hard for everything they've accomplished," Sikora said.

"These are some of the most coachable boys I've ever had. If they explain something to them, they go out there and do it."

Despite the success his team has had in terms of victories, Sikora said the most important accomplishment he has achieved is teaching fundamentals to boys who have never put on pads before.

"I've been at Grigsby since the door opened 26 years ago and have been associated with the football team since Day One," Sikora said. "What really makes it worthwhile is the sense of accomplishment you feel watching players learn the game over the course of the season."

WHEN WE DECIDED TO HELP EDUCATION, WE KNEW JUST WHAT TO DO.

We listened to the experts. Teachers whose insight has been invaluable in helping us develop concrete solutions to the needs of education. Together, we developed a Classroom Grant Program. A wide variety of special projects funded through this program are helping students at every grade level. To date, these grants have supported everything from basic supplies, such as crayons, pencils and paper to special programs that vary from Classical Theater and Photography to the basics of Reading, Science and Math.

Building a better community through education isn't our job. But it is our responsibility. To learn more about free educational services we've made available to schools, classrooms and individual students, call 1-800-755-5000. Or you can always listen to the teachers.

Venus in Virgo makes a beautiful trine aspect to Uranus and Neptune in Capricorn. With these planets being in earth signs, they are conducive to business. Here we have flow, diplomacy, intuition and imagination all working hand in hand to steer you in the right direction financially. The energy also encourages you to enjoy what you already have. Balance work with love and pleasure.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Expect surefire results at work, along with better job conditions and relations with colleagues — including the chance of an office romance. Give it some thought, and you can come up with good reasons for exercising.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Keep your back field in motion — you could make a financial end-run and score a surprise touchdown. Relationships need variety to stay alive! It's time to think about what you really feel. Kids are a rare treat.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Good endings come to projects started recently. Home conditions are improved when you have a positive attitude. You could make a killing in real estate if you've done your homework. Do what's best for family members.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Something happens to break through an emotional impasse with your lifetime companion. Travel plans are shaping up nicely. Even the dowdy old neighborhood looks better today. Give your sis a call.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). It's financial payday! Balancing the budget is easier because you have something to balance. You can do well in a service profession. It's worth the extra effort to get along with prickly-tempered in-laws.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 6). Your natural ability to support others and your feel for the public's pulse are the keys to fame and fortune. Going that extra mile helps convert others to your cause in November and January. People want to hear from you in December. In '94, you have more suitors than you know what to do with. Money is power in May and July.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Leave no stone unturned to make life fun again. Think of the people you'd like to invite to a party — and then think about giving one. If your shirts or blouses are a bit frayed, replace them. You are sensitive to bad foods.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Even being alone will be enjoyable if you use the time to get to know yourself better. Charity definitely starts at home, with family members and those unpredictable relatives. Keep your motives pure, and you will easily succeed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). It's your turn to treat friends or colleagues to a quality lunch. Life seems brighter and more hopeful — your point of view makes the difference. Think how lucky you are to have a job when so many are out of work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Your career is in good standing. Artistic projects — especially involving computer graphics — succeed. Plan something for the evening that is a big change of pace. It's time to thank your parents for all they've done.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Plan a nice trip for yourself, even if you might have to wait to have the time for it. Be quick on the uptake at work — your ready wit could save the day. Do something about those creative impulses rather than stifling them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). The best way to transform a relationship is to reach down to the very bottom of your soul and scoop up another bushel of love. If you handle money skillfully, you could live off the interest. Learn more about your own body.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Your relationship is at peace at last — but you've got to contribute to keep it going. The public takes to you well. Nothing is too much trouble to please loved ones. You have a chance to make a new best friend.

Team spirit keeps 'Cool' running

By Harry Hamm

Correspondent

In 1988, a bobbed team from Jamaica competed in the Winter Olympics. Although the team didn't win a medal, the Jamaicans won the hearts of the world because of their dedication in the face of formidable odds.

The story of this effort is presented in the new film "Cool Runnings." Much of the account has been fictionalized for the sake of a more commercial story.

John Candy heads a good cast in "Cool Runnings" as Irv, an ex-American bobbed competitor. Irv won a medal in the event prior to 1988, only to have it taken away when it was learned he had cheated. Irv now lives in Jamaica. He has become fat and remorseful.

When four young Jamaican men come to him with their dream of competing in the Olympics as a bobbed team, Irv is doubtful. But he promises them two weeks of makeshift training, just to see if they have the stuff to really do it.

The four young Jamaicans are played by Doug E. Doug, Malik Yoba, Rawle D. Lewis and an actor who bills himself as Leon.

"Cool Runnings" is a humorous, well-acted little semidramatic comedy. Candy's role is more serious than funny, but it still works.

Rated PG (mild adult language). Running time: 100 minutes.

It's Time for a few Autumn Odds 'n Ends

by the experts at

FRANK'S NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

October 31 is not only Halloween, but this year it's also the date that daylight savings time ends. In just a few weeks, it will be dark before dinner! But look at the bright side: Halloween is the latest possible date for switching to standard time, so we get to enjoy this October to the max! It won't happen again until 1999, so we may as well take advantage of it.

Sow seed, and

If you need to do any seeding or sodding, there's still time for it before winter. Actually, it's better to do it now than it was two months ago, since the temperatures have cooled down, which allows new grass to establish more easily.

Keep the mower handy

There's still some lawn cutting to do, and we'd like to clear up a something in an earlier column that may be a bit confusing. Your grass should be kept slightly longer during the fall to help prevent weeds. However, when you cut the grass the last couple of times before winter, cut it a little shorter than usual. This will keep snow from matting it down.

Holes in one?

Some people believe that wearing golf shoes while mowing is a good way to aerate the lawn. Not true! You don't harm anything, but the spikes in golf shoes are too short to do any good. About the only benefit they'll provide is good footing if you plan on teeing up a ball, but since your neighbors won't appreciate that, it's best to save the spikes for the course.

Bring on the wood

Check your firewood supply. It'll be time to get the fireplace going before you know it. If you have added to your pile of firewood, consider rotating it. Move the older, drier stuff to the top. Newly cut wood is much more difficult to get started, and by rotating it whenever you add to the pile, you'll always have the driest, easiest-to-burn wood on top.

Too cool for comfort

If you're a pool owner and haven't closed it down by now, there's no need to wait any longer. Yes, an 80-degree day or two is still possible, but unfortunately, the water won't warm up to a comfortable level quite that fast. How to close a pool depends on the type you have, and it can get too involved for the space available here. However, there are some general tips for all types of pools.

Water-tight in winter

All leaks MUST be repaired before winter sets in! Even a tiny hole could spell disaster for your pool. The pool won't freeze all the way to the bottom, therefore the ice that forms will be supported by the water below it. If that water leaks out, even slowly, there will be nothing left to hold the ice up. And that's a pretty fair-sized, heavy chunk of ice that will come crashing down!

Face-off? Not here!

While we're on the subject, if your kids wish to do an impression of Brett Hull, a backyard swimming pool is not the place! A frozen pool can present a very inviting ice surface, but leave it at that. Hockey or any other type of skating can cause severe damage to a pool. Once it freezes, it should be left alone until all the ice has melted.

Gone with the wind

If you use a winter cover on the pool, make sure it's well secured. A good wind can blow up a pool cover, which could very easily dislodge and/or damage it. Filling gallon jugs with water and using them as weights may work if your pool isn't subject to heavy winds. If it is, you'll have to anchor the cover down more securely.
